A vicious cycle of theft at T stations

170 stolen bikes reported to date • Initiative at Red Line stops today to discuss theft prevention • Cambridge saw upswing in stolen bicycles

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ Transit Police Patrolman Saro Thompson hands cyclist Laura Nasuti a pamphlet on bike theft prevention. Bicycle thefts have reached a new high on T property this year.

Safety tips

Tips for keeping track of your two-wheeler:

- Record the serial number
- Choose a quality, heavy-duty lock
- Lock your bike to a rack, not a sign post

Info on safety for your bike

From 4 to 6:30 p.m. today, officers and Red Line workers will be stationed at several locations to talk about bicycle theft and safety. The outreach is aimed at preventing bicycle theft by stressing the importance of bike security.

Last year, bike thefts at T stations reached a 12-year high.

But this year, larcenies are even worse.

Transit Police Deputy Chief Joseph O'Connor said as T ridership spiked, a larger number of people parked their bikes at MBTA stations.

And with that came more thefts.

According to Transit Police statistics, 170 bikes to date have been stolen systemwide compared to 156 for all of 2010.

As new bike racks fill up fast during morning commutes, people put their bikes other places in a rush to catch a train, said O'Connor.

"They are locking them to signs and poles that aren't designed to secure bikes and that makes them more vulnerable for theft," he said.

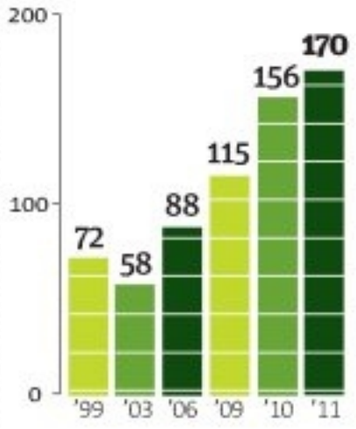
By the numbers

A look at the bicycle thefts from 1999 until this point so far in 2011.



Transit Police Lt. Robert Lenehan said rising gas prices have also led to more people commuting by bike to T stations, which has contributed to the increase.

In Lenehan's district, which incorporates certain Red Line stops, officers have launched an awareness program to thwart bike thefts.

While some problem stations in his district, like Alewife, saw a drop in bicycle larcenies, he said larceny is still the No. 1 problem for T police overall.

"We have experienced bike thefts this year in locations where we have never had bike thefts in the past," said Lenehan.

Lenehan said Cambridge in particular has experienced an upswing in reported thefts as it's bike-friendly reputation grows.

"This is representative of the growing trend in bike theft not just across the MBTA, but also across the commonwealth," he said.

▶ Moulton's mother Kimberly Flynn testifies.

Victim's kin want panic button for caregivers

A dozen family members and friends of a woman allegedly killed by a patient she was counseling urged legislators yesterday to pass a bill that would equip mental health workers with panic buttons.

"I'm not saying the panic button would have changed it, but it would have given her a fighting chance," said Kimberly Flynn, Stephanie Moulton's mother. "We have to make sure she didn't die for no reason."

Moulton, 25, was killed earlier this year allegedly by a resident of the Revere mental health facility where she worked.

The legislation, dubbed "Stephanie's Law," would allow workers to wear panic buttons around their necks in case they require help. MICHAEL NAUGHTON

▶ A Fair Fight Rally was held in front of the Massachusetts State House by supporters of the Protection from Sexual Predators Act of 2011 yesterday.

Changes sought in sex abuse laws

- Advocates want to do away with statute of limitations
- Survivors say it takes decades to cope, come forward

Calling child sexual abuse "slow murder," advocates for a bill that would end the statute of limitations for abuse cases rallied at the State House yesterday.

Survivors of abuse spoke in favor of the bill at the rally led by victim attorney Carmen Durso and the Massachusetts Citizens for Children.

A victim can sometimes take decades to deal with their abuse and come forward, survivors said.

"I did try to move on and forget things, but the time for me was 48 [years old]," said tennis player Heather Conner who has alleged being abused by her coach and International Tennis Hall of Fame member Bob Hewitt. "I was told to never ever, ever tell. That was pretty ingrained in my mind."

Another athlete, former Philadelphia Eagles player Al Chesley, said it also took him until the age of 48 to speak about abuse that happened to him as a teen.

"I want to protect kids from going through what I went through. For many years it killed my spirit."

The bill was the subject of a Judiciary Committee hearing yesterday.

MICHAEL NAUGHTON
michael.naughton@metro.us

About the bill

Advocates said the bill contains key elements to help survivors earn justice and to protect children:

- Eliminates entirely the criminal statute of limitations for indecent assault and battery and rape for all minors
- Eliminates the civil statute of limitations for past and future childhood sexual abuse claims
- Increases penalties for some mandated reporters who do not report sexual abuse on a child

Fare increase study on track; July hike possible

MBTA ridership isn't the only thing that might go up next year — by July 1 commuters are likely to see a fare increase, too.

During a meeting with the MBTA's board of directors yesterday, Charles Planck, the senior director of strategic initiatives, said the wheels are in motion to examine service cuts and fare hikes on the T.

Planck said a lengthy process that includes examining impacts on ridership, several meetings with the T's Rider Oversight Committee and a handful of public hearings must happen first, however.

A springtime vote is needed from the MBTA board for targeting the implementation by July.

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

MBTA interim General Manager Jon Davis said nothing has been decided yet, but the process is under way.

"We have contracted with an analytical arm to look at fare levels and service structures to consider how to address the budget gap," he said.

It has been half a decade since the T raised fares.

MJ doctor trial off to emotional start

- Prosecutors show picture of dead Michael Jackson
- Murray faces up to four years in prison if convicted

AL SEIB/POOL/REUTERS

▶ An image seen in court shows Michael Jackson practicing on June 24, 2009, and on June 25, 2009, lying in the hospital.

Grim photos of Michael Jackson lying dead in a hospital bed juxtaposed with a picture of the "Thriller" singer rehearsing the day before his demise brought an emotional opening yesterday to the manslaughter trial of the doctor hired to care for him.

In opening arguments two years after Jackson's sudden death by drug overdose, prosecutor David Walgren told jurors that the pop star "literally put his life in the hands of Dr. Conrad Murray."

"That misplaced trust in the hands of Conrad Murray cost Michael Jackson his life," Walgren added.

But Murray's lawyers argued that Jackson "caused his own death" by giving himself extra medication. "He died so rapidly, so instantly, he didn't even have time to close his eyes," defense attorney Ed Chernoff said in opening arguments.

Murray has pleaded not guilty to the involuntary manslaughter of Jackson on June 25, 2009, but faces a prison sentence of up to four years if jurors find he is ultimately responsible for the pop star's death due to inadequate care. The trial is expected to last four to six weeks.

The Texas cardiologist, who was getting $150,000 a month to care for Jackson, wiped away tears during yesterday's opening statements as attorney Chernoff defended him. REUTERS

"We have the wind in our face because the American people have the wind in their faces," he said. REUTERS

Service wakeup call: Hold the 'tude

PAUL J. RICHARDS/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Researchers say stores should focus on training employees to be better at conflict resolution and "difficult people."

If it feels like retail employees are rude to you on a regular basis, you're certainly not alone.

More than a third of consumers say they experience rude customer service at least once a month, according to a study in the most recent issue of the Journal of Service Research. To make matters worse for the retailer, more than half of those who experience rudeness tell their friends and coworkers about the incident (58 percent and 55 percent, respectively).

It's not just the rudeness customers experience firsthand that has the potential to tar a company's reputation. Researchers found that half of those surveyed witnessed one employee be rude to another at a store at least once a month, and the vast majority of those customers who did ended up speaking negatively about the company.

Rude behavior, or "incivility" as the researchers refer to it, is defined in the report as encompassing any incident where workers are perceived as being insensitive or disrespectful.

Gyms do the heavy lifting

NEW YORK. Restaurants proved to have the highest frequency of rude encounters in each category, with 83 percent of respondents saying a restaurant employee was rude to them at some point. Gyms, on the other hand, ranked the best in each category, with just 10 percent of respondents experiencing rude behavior firsthand.

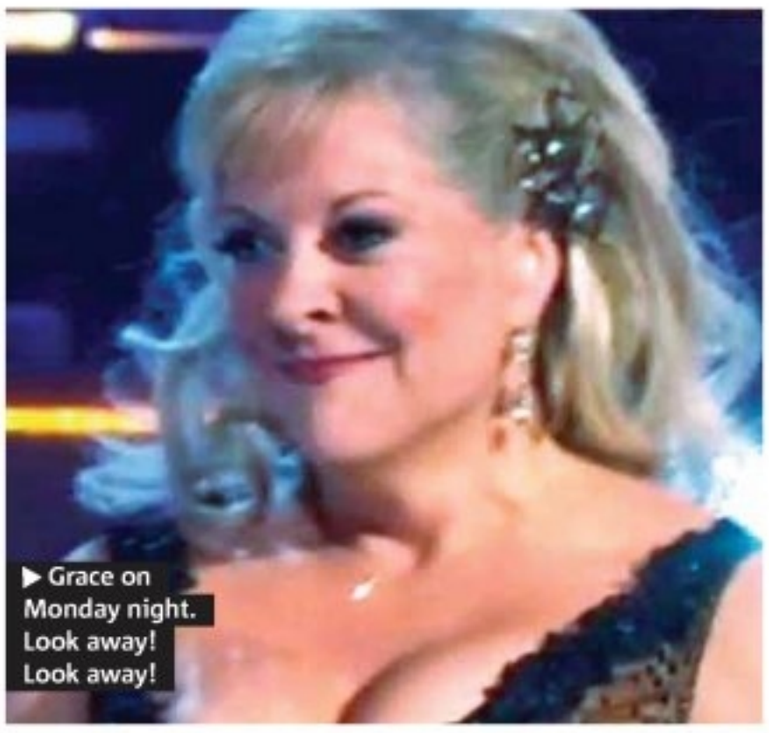
Nancy Grace, out on top

Today's column makes me want to rethink my life choices, as it is all about Nancy Grace's boob. More specifically: Did it or didn't it slip out during Monday night's episode of "Dancing with the Stars"? (Sorry, Mom. For everything.)

During a jive routine with partner Tristan MacManus, Grace's left ta-ta slipped a bit from her tight-fitting dress. Luckily, a quick-thinking (or momentarily blinded?) cameraman was able to cut away from the Republican areole but it was too late: Millions of people saw it. And if they didn't catch it, they certainly did yesterday when "Nancy Grace Boob" was one of the most Googled phrases of the day.



▶ Grace on Monday night. Look away! Look away!

However, Grace swears it didn't happen.

"Tonight, when we were doing our hopscotch portion of our dance, there was a little bit of movement but it did not rise to a wardrobe malfunction," the 51-year-old told Us Weekly backstage after the show. "We have taken every precaution known to men in this dress right here. I'm talking industrial-size precaution. There may have been ... a little bit of jiggling, but there was absolutely not a wardrobe malfunction."

But then again, Grace has been wrong about a few things before, such as Duke lacrosse players committing rape (they didn't), or that Richard Ricci "was guilty" of kidnapping Elizabeth Smart (he wasn't), or that her fiance was killed by a stranger in 1979 (it was actually a co-worker). Not really sure where to put this nip-slip in the awful Nancy Grace incorrectness hierarchy? I'm guessing toward the top. Zing!

Jessica Simpson, pregnant?

In Touch Weekly is reporting that Jessica Simpson is pregnant. The 31-year-old singer recently attended the 32nd birthday party of her fiance, Eric Johnson, where she sent back her glass of champagne for a birthday toast. Why? Because she's pregnant, of course! Why else? A source close to Jessica and Eric tells In Touch the couple is expecting. "She's already having kooky cravings!" a friend shares, especially nacho chips dipped in chocolate — "which satisfy her urge for salty and sweet" — cheese-flavored popcorn and non-alcoholic margaritas.

Simpson

"Jessica might have to take out her dress a bit," says the source as their plans to marry in November have not changed. Excellent defense, Simpson! Now no one will dare say you did not lose enough weight before your wedding, if they think it's a baby bump.

When Simon Cowell breaks up with a girlfriend, he doesn't like them to leave empty-handed. Cowell claims that he pays his exes after they split so they can maintain the standard of living he's introduced them to, according to Hollyscoop. "You can't have somebody in your life who's become accustomed to a certain thing and, just because you don't want to be in a relationship any more, say to them, 'No, everything is cut off,'" says Cowell, who is currently engaged to makeup artist Mezhgan Hussainy. He didn't elaborate as to what sort of payments he's made to his exes, though.

Dunst battles depression

Kirsten Dunst, whose new movie, "Melancholia," is being called "beautifully depressing," is opening up about depression herself. "I think that most human beings go through some sort of depression in their life. And if they don't, I think that's weird," she tells Flare magazine. "People are embarrassed to talk about it — I would never put anyone down that was in that kind of space." One area that isn't causing Dunst any sort of depression is her love life, and she says the secret is to not date a fellow actor. "I've dated someone for a pretty long time now who's not an actor, and it works better," says Dunst, who is currently dating Razorlight singer Johnny Borrell.

Teen death spurs Gaga

Outraged over the recent suicide of 14-year-old fan Jamey Rodemeyer, Lady Gaga took her anti-bullying crusade straight to President Barack Obama, according to ABC News. The pop star attended a $35,800 per person fundraiser in Silicon Valley, Calif., to press the president on legislation that would make bullying a hate crime. Gaga reportedly used her chance to plead with "everyone in the room, including the president, to do what they can," a source says.

Support the good of many

It's obvious that Metro is pro-liberal and anti-conservative. While I don't agree with either party 100 percent, I know America is falling apart. And our citizens are finally waking up. The good of the many outweighs the good for the few. That's how a country survives. Why are we blindly taking care of others when we can't take care of ourselves? The free ride on the backs of hardworking Americans is over. If liberalism had free reign, this country would die.
CHRIS MCDAVID, BOSTON

Strong goal: Vote them out

Your story about the anti-Wall Street group never explains what they're actually trying to achieve. It should be simple: Register to vote, and stop voting for Republicans!
RICHARD FEINBERG, BOSTON

Doubt cast on Davis death?

RE: "WRONGFUL DEATH, NOTHING NEW?": I guess when a black man is committed of a crime, whether he's innocent or not doesn't matter. You cast doubt of Troy Davis' innocence, even with the new evidence and the witnesses who say they were told to commit perjury under oath?
RANDALL EPHRAIM, VIA E-MAIL

Can't afford to 'wait and see'

I'm frustrated that the international media keeps ignoring the ongoing atrocities happening in Southeast Asia. As numerous reports make clear, Burma continues to be ruled by one of the world's most brutal military regimes. The U.S. government and the international community must make Burma a priority and no longer just "wait and see" if the regime will change.
JAN-PAUL ALON, VIA E-MAIL

Oldie not really that goodie

RE: "CONTRACEPTION CELEBRATION: A HISTORY OF SEX": The "oldie but goodie" contraceptive method of coitus interruptus (withdrawal or pull-out) is actually not as effective as your article suggests. According to Planned Parenthood, 4 of every 100 women whose partners use this method will become pregnant each year if they always do it correctly, while 27 of every 100 women whose partner uses this method will become pregnant each year if they don't always do it correctly.

Horoscope

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Not only will companions appreciate your charisma, they will equally welcome your leadership qualities as well. No one will challenge the example you set or mess with your directives.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Friends know that when you are told something in confidence no one will pry it from you. Don't let them down.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. When involved in a group activity, be sure to make the rounds instead of singling out one person for special attention. Converse equally with all and everything will go smoothly.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Capricorns can sometimes be extremely single-minded and standoffish or extremely outgoing when necessity demands. This could be one of those days when you'll have to choose.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. If at all possible, seek endeavors that will enable you to utilize your imagination and creativity. It will encourage you to come up with some ideas.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. It might look to others that you're likely to take things at face value, but actually you won't be easily deceived. Slick salespersons or con artists won't find you to be an easy mark at all.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. There is no excuse for ducking an important decision just because it's tricky. If you don't have the courage to render a judgment call, you never will.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. It's important to realize that details can be just as important as major factors when rendering a decision. Remember that each small part is essential to the making of the whole.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. You'll get far more out of being with companions who are young in spirit than you will spending time with somber fellows. The youthful in mind will help you feel young at heart.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. It is so wonderful of you to be protective and cherishing of those you love, but be careful not to carry this too far. You must take care to leave your dear ones some breathing space.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Your natural ability to read the character of others is exceptionally pronounced. However, a word of caution: Keep your critical evaluations to yourself.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. One of your better virtues is your willingness to teach and share your knowledge with others. You could have some real gems of information that'll save people money. Don't hold back. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

OCTOBER FOR EVENING FUN

October's shorter days also bring longer nights. Take advantage of daytime activities and then set out for nights on the town filled with concerts, theatrical performances and new fall dining menus. You're guaranteed to fall for Boston!

Although "The CLOCK" is ticking, there's still time to witness this compelling ode to time and cinema showing at the Museum of Fine Arts. However, you're out of time after Oct.10. If time permits, see the groundbreaking exhibition "Degas and the Nude," also on display at the MFA. Speaking of time, explore one of the greatest archeological treasures unearthed in "A Day in Pompeii," when time stood still more than 1,700 years ago, at the Museum of Science.

Art is accessible this time of year with the city's Open Studios. Talk with and buy direct from artists in Roxbury from Sept. 29 through Oct. 2, Fort Point on Oct. 15 and 16 and Dorchester over the weekend of Oct. 22.

The Boston Public Library's exhibit tells the story of a nation torn in two, in commemoration of the 150th Anniversary of the Civil War. Fast-forward 100 years and listen to Jacqueline Kennedy's conversations with Arthur Schlesinger in "In Her Voice" at the JFK Library & Museum. Copley Square is home to the Boston Book Festival on Oct. 15 with more than 100 authors, workshops, booksellers and signings.

You won't want to miss Lord Stanley when the Bruins open their season on Oct. 6 at the TD Garden. And while the Bruins are flying across the ice, "Peter Pan" flies across City Hall Plaza from Oct. 18 to Nov. 11.

There's a lot more going on than simply leaves turning colors. Autumn means old salts and novices alike try and catch the wind as they race among the Harbor Islands in the seventh annual Regatta on Oct. 1. Oktoberfest & HONK Festival fill Harvard Square on Oct. 2 and the renowned Head of the Charles takes over the river and its banks on the weekend of Oct. 22. While you might not want to admit that you in fact do enjoy leaf-peeping, do it on your way to Wachusett Mountain for the annual Ski & Board Sale & Swap on Oct. 6-11, Applefest on Oct. 15 and 16 and the second annual BBQ Festival, the weekend of Oct. 22.

It's also time for candy corn! To get in the spirit, purchase one of a thousand glass pumpkins at MIT's Pumpkin Patch on Oct. 1 or take a Ghosts & Gravestones Tour to see Boston's darker side. Or visit Salem's Haunted Happenings, which runs the entire month. You can also attend Zoo Howl with creature encounters and ghoulish games, Oct. 29 and 30. Or trick-or-treat at PRU BOO on Oct. 30.

– Visit our website, www.bostonusa.com, for more details and great deals and enjoy being a Boston Insider in your own

Ryan Gosling takes a spin

... and ruins some rims in preparation for his role as a stunt driver in 'Drive' Why it never would have been made without the help of REO Speedwagon

RICHARD FOREMAN

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

For a guy who plays a stunt driver that moonlights as a getaway driver in "Drive," Ryan Gosling says he didn't get a whole lot of time behind the wheel in the film. "I drove myself to set and I drove myself home," he says with a laugh. But seriously, though. "I went to driving school, and I did a lot of the driving. But the cool stuff, I didn't do," he says. "But it was one of the best prep experiences I've ever had, because I'd basically just show up to this big parking lot, and there'd be a new Camaro or a new Mustang and we'd just ride it to the rims until it was smoking or it wouldn't go anymore, then we'd just go home and they'd tow it away and call us when it was fixed."

"Drive" was something of a meeting of the minds for Gosling and the film's director, Nicolas Winding Refn. "We set out to make a violent John Hughes movie, and I think that's what we did," Gosling says. "This movie wouldn't have happened if REO Speedwagon hadn't come on the radio [during a drive the actor and director shared while discussing the project]."

"We set out to make a violent John Hughes movie, and I think that's what we did."
GOSLING

Gosling and the director's shared dream apparently worked out great, as the pair are jumping into more projects together already. They're now developing a remake of "Logan's Run" and they're prepping to shoot a film about Thai kickboxing.

With "Drive" getting such positive reviews, there's been talk of a sequel — even if it was originally just in jest: "We were joking for a while — but maybe it's not a joke — that it would be a prequel called 'Drive 2' where it's about [Albert Brooks] and Ron Perlman," he says.

When Albert Brooks goes too far

As a producer on "Drive" as well as the star, Ryan Gosling played a major role in shaping the finished product with director Nicolas Winding Refn — which meant making some tough decisions. "The hardest scene to cut was the scene where Albert Brooks actually chokes a guy out on camera and he passes out. That was amazing," Gosling remembers. "I talked to Albert that night, and I said, 'Hey Albert, how'd the scene go?' And he goes, 'Ah ... I actually knocked the guy out. I choked him out. Is that bad?' You watch the guy's eyes roll into the back of his head and he falls to the floor. Everyone thought he was acting, but he wasn't."

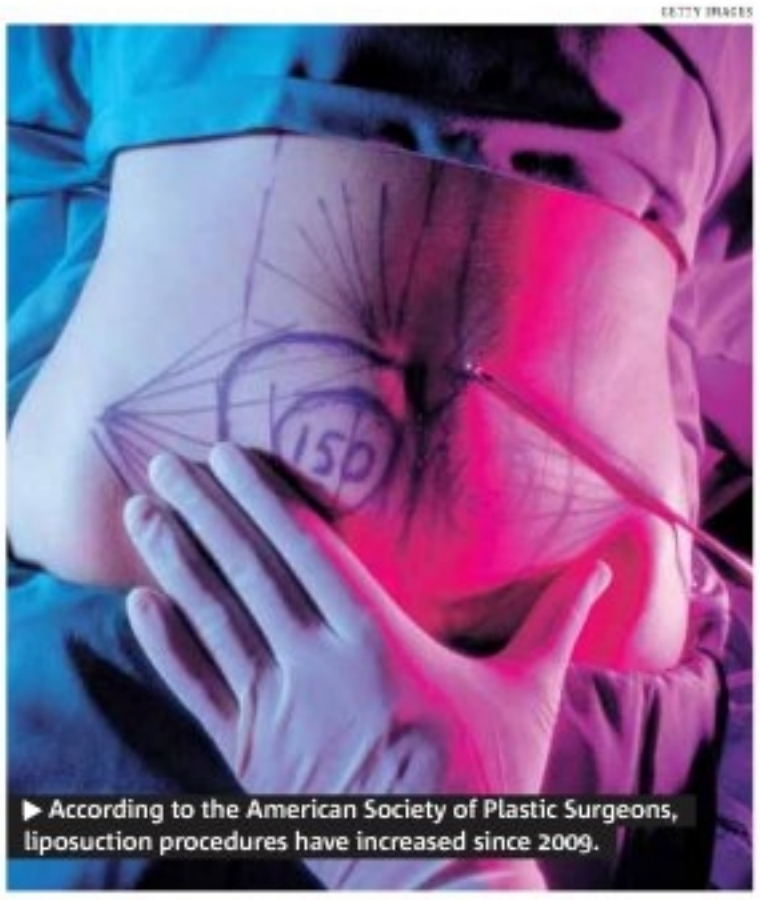
Lipo by laser: Is it a good idea?

- Alternative procedures promise no pain and less recovery time
- But are they right for you?

GETTY IMAGES



▶ According to the American Society of Plastic Surgeons, liposuction procedures have increased since 2009.

Though they're not the most popular of all plastic surgeries performed (that would be breast augmentation, with 296,000 surgeries done in 2010), liposuction procedures have increased 2 percent from 2009, to 203,000 procedures performed in 2010. For those considering the surgery, there are some new alternatives to going under the knife — like Zerona, a non-invasive laser alternative that was approved by the FDA last year. Zerona uses local anesthesia, which is thought to be safer than general anesthesia (used in traditional lipo) and causes and less tissue damage.

"Patients can go back to work straight after — there's no downtime. You don't feel anything," says Kathy Bettencourt, RN, MSN, who uses Zerona at the Beach Plum Spas on Cape Cod and in Plymouth, Mass. The Zerona laser liquifies the fat and drains it via a small puncture in the cell, which heals within 72 hours. Then, the fat is disposed of naturally through the lymphatic system.

But not everyone is as enthusiastic about Zerona.

"If it sounds too good to be true, it is," says Dr. Mitchell Chasin, founder and medical director of New Jersey's Reflections Center for Skin and Body. "Zerona takes away general anesthesia, but that's the only good thing about it. We found the machines were ineffective. The process involves drinking a gallon of water, cardio, no alcohol and a low-fat diet. It's the lifestyle change that gives the reduction."

Not so, says Bettencourt: "I tried it and lost several inches. I incorporated the diet program afterward and the weight has stayed off."

Other options

If you're considering plastic surgery, other alternatives to traditional lipo include Vaser, which uses ultrasound technology; lasers such as SlimLipo and SmartLipo; and Zeltique, a so-called "cool sculpting" laser method. But only fully trained professionals should do any procedure. For plastic surgeries, make sure the surgeon is board-certified and check for any malpractice suits (which can be easily found on medical board websites).

Important information about the flu

Flu vaccines may be available in your community now. Get vaccinated before flu season starts in October. The sooner you get the vaccine the better. Don't delay. Protect yourself, your family, your friends, and others you meet from this potentially serious disease.

It's flu season again and the public health community wants you to be informed. The flu is a disease that affects the lungs and can lead to serious illness, pneumonia and even death. Some of the symptoms are fever, sore throat, cough, headache, chills, and body aches. Last flu season was particularly bad. If you recall, a new flu virus called "H1N1" emerged. This flu was more dangerous than the typical seasonal flu. Hospitalization rates for people between the ages of 5 and 64 more than doubled. Four to 5 times as many young people died than in previous years.

Anyone can get and spread the flu. Healthy kids and adults can sick from the flu and spread it to family and friends. Getting the flu vaccine is the best way to protect against the flu.

Flu Vaccine Facts

- The vaccine is safe
- You cannot catch the flu from the vaccine
- The earlier you get the shot the better (don't wait until people around you get sick)
- You need to get the shot every year (even if you had it last year)
- People with egg allergy may still be able to get the vaccine (consult your doctor)

There are two types of flu vaccine available:

- The flu shot, which is given by injection into the muscle, and
- Nasal spray, which is sprayed into the nostrils (nasal spray vaccine is not recommended for everyone)

Some people have a higher risk of getting very sick if they catch the flu. People with high risk include pregnant women, young children, seniors and the elderly, and people with chronic health problems like asthma, diabetes, or heart and lung disease. If you live with a person with high risk, you should be sure to get the vaccine so that you do not spread the flu to them. This is also true for health care professionals and others who work with high risk individuals.

5 Tips To Help You Stay Healthy

1) Get a flu shot.

2) Boost your immune system; eat healthy, exercise and get enough sleep.

3) Try not to touch your hands to your eyes, nose or mouth.

4) Wash your hands many times each day! Use hot water and soap and scrub briskly.

5) Use a hand sanitizer that has alcohol between washings.

What does Boston IVF do?

A national leader in cutting-edge reproductive technologies and patient care, Boston IVF compassionately assists individuals and couples overcome infertility and achieve their dreams of starting a family. With more than 30,000 babies born since 1986 and each of our physicians on staff at Harvard Medical School, we are among America's most experienced fertility centers.

What services does BIVF provide?

With over ten locations throughout Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire, our infertility centers offer a wide-array of services including consultation and evaluation, IVF, intrauterine insemination, ovulation stimulation cycles, ultra-sound services, blood hormone evaluations and more.

How can Boston IVF help?

Research suggests that many couples and individuals who can become pregnant with assisted reproductive technology (ART) do not because they are afraid to initiate treatment. At Boston IVF, we ensure patients are comfortable and confident throughout the treatment process. So, when it comes to assessing their chances to become pregnant, we take a personal approach. We assess our patient's chances based on their own health and fertility profile. By tailoring our medical evaluations and services to their personal needs, they receive the highest quality of customized treatment.

How can patients initiate a fertility evaluation at Boston IVF?

Simple actually. Call (888) 300-BIVF (2483) to schedule a consultation. In addition, our Patient Liaison Rhonda Gannon is available, via phone or email, to individuals with questions about their fertility. Go to www.bostonivf.com and click on our Ask Rhonda page.

New center for robotic surgery helps women with gynecological disorders

At Brigham and Women's Center for Robotic Surgery at Faulkner Hospital, gynecologists are using cutting edge technology to treat and care for many gynecological conditions using state-of-the-art robotics to improve reproductive surgery outcomes.

At Brigham and Women's Center for Robotic Surgery at Faulkner Hospital, physicians use the da Vinci Surgical System to perform a wide variety of gynecological procedures including:

- Hysterectomies (benign or cancer)
- Myomectomy (removing fibroids but preserving the uterus)
- Tubal Reversals (after prior tubal ligation)
- Endometriosis
- Ovarian cysts and masses

Under the direction of Dr. James Greenberg, the Center is led by Dr. Antonio Gargiulo and Dr. Serene Srouji who are pioneers in the field of gynecological robotic surgery, having performed New England's first successful robot-assisted laparoscopic tubal sterilization reversal, as well as Boston's first robot-assisted hybrid myomectomy for the removal of very large myomata. They have since continued this accomplished partnership to perform more than 350 robot-assisted surgeries.

"Traditional open surgery requires one large incision and retraction to accommodate human hands, but only small incisions are required for the robot's hands," states Dr. Gargiulo. In fact, these hands are attached to four arms - one guides a high definition 3-D camera, two act as the surgeon's main arms, and an optional arm is often used for holding back tissue. The movements of the robot are always guided by a doctor, never programmed.

This miniaturization, increased range of motion, enhanced vision, and mechanical precision ultimately allow for virtually all reproductive surgeries to be performed laparoscopically, translating into added benefits for the patient, such as:

- Less blood loss
- Less post-surgical pain /less medication
- Quicker recovery and return to normal activities
- Less scarring
- Less likelihood of complications

"Many of our patients are still in their child-bearing years," states Dr. Srouji. "Of all the gynecological procedures performed today, the precision of robotic surgery allows us more opportunities to effectively preserve the fertility of our patients."

If you have any of the symptoms described above, call us at 617-983-7500 to schedule a consultation.

Tired Of Wearing Glasses Or Contacts? Your Wait For Improved Vision Is Over.

For a limited time save $1500 on iLASIK, get a free LASIK evaluation (a $250 Value) and get 0% financing for a full 24 months! New England Eye Center is excited to introduce you to the ultimate in laser vision correction, its called iLASIK™ and it's the culmination of everything we've learned about LASIK over the past decade. Now that the iLASIK procedure is available, there's really no reason to put off having laser vision correction surgery.

The introduction of the iLASIK procedure means your wait for improved vision is over, because:

1. Most people are candidates – Get a free evaluation today
2. iLASIK technology is advanced and innovative — so it's safe and proven
3. The iLASIK procedure is not complicated — it's fast and virtually painless

The iLASIK Procedure — It's Safe And Proven

The technology used in the iLASIK procedure is very mature and very safe. Doctors have been doing LASIK for over a decade. Nearly 32 million LASIK procedures have been performed to date, making it the most common elective vision procedure in the U.S. In fact, all branches of the U.S. military and NASA recently approved LASIK for their servicemen and women thanks to studies using iLASIK technology.

You're Probably A Candidate

The reality is that the majority of people who meet the age and general health requirements are in fact good candidates for the iLASIK procedure. There are some conditions that exclude certain patients, but whether you have nearsightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism, there's a good chance you can still have the iLASIK procedure.

If you meet the basic criteria below, you should call today to book your free evaluation:

- You are at least 18 years old
- You are in good general health
- You have had a stable vision prescription for at least one year
- You have no existing eye disease

Take The Next Step

Now that you've learned the basics about the iLASIK procedure, you should:

- Schedule a FREE complimentary consultation with our doctors to determine if you are a good candidate for the iLASIK procedure

Presbyopia Correcting IOLs (Multifocal IOLs)

Presbyopia is a condition that most people over the age of 40 experience that results in difficulty seeing up close without the aid of bifocals, trifocals, or reading glasses. The age-related condition is believed to be caused by a hardening of the lens inside the eye, making it difficult for the eye's muscles to change its focus.

Over time, the lens becomes cloudy and develops into a cataract. It is said that, if we live long enough, we will all develop cataracts. The only way to treat cataracts is to remove and replace them with an Intraocular Lens (IOL).

Until recently, the primary option was to receive a "fixed focus" IOL. Patients who received this type of IOL typically had both eyes corrected for distance vision but usually still required glasses for intermediate and near vision.

If you are experiencing presbyopia or cataracts, you may be a candidate for one of the new technologically advanced IOLs that can provide a full range of vision. This means that you can read and see clearly in the distance and everything in-between, with little or no dependence on bifocals, trifocals, or contact lenses. It's almost like having a bifocal or progressive lens inside your eye.

Depending on the technological features of these IOLs, they may be described as "Accommodating IOLs", "Apodized-diffractive IOLs", or "Multifocal IOLs". Each of these lenses has some advantages and disadvantages. Which one is best for you depends on the unique characteristics of your eye as well as your lifestyle needs. You and your doctor will decide together which lens is more advantageous for you. New England Eye Center offers many premium lens options including Crystalens, ReStor, Toric and others.

The vast majority of patients who chose a Multifocal lens report they can read a book, work on a computer, drive a car – day and night – and play golf or tennis with an increased freedom from glasses. Multifocal lens surgery can address cataracts, presbyopia and astigmatism.

Intraocular Lens for Astigmatism

Advances in Intraocular Lens (IOL) technology now provide a reliable and effective option for patients with astigmatism. Until the recent introduction of Toric IOLs, people who are considered candidates for intraocular lenses could only have their nearsightedness and farsightedness corrected during lens implant surgery. Patients with astigmatism would either require corneal refractive surgery (LASIK, PRK, or LRI) after lens implant surgery or the would remain dependant on glasses or contacts due to uncorrected astigmatism.

Astigmatism is caused by the cornea being more curved in one direction than the other, much like a football. Toric IOLs are specially shaped IOLs designed to offset the imbalance created by the irregular shape of the cornea. Once implanted and aligned inside the eye, they stay fixed in place, thereby eliminating pre-existing astigmatism.

It's Always Time to Be Healthy

Fall is here. Vacations are over, the kids are back in school, and it's time to recommit to a healthy lifestyle. At BMC HealthNet Plan, we believe our members deserve to feel healthy in both mind and body all year round. Our online Your Healthiest You Wellness Center teaches our nearly 240,000 MassHealth and Commonwealth Care members how to get and stay well.

As a leading Massachusetts health plan, BMC HealthNet Plan also believes that everyone in Massachusetts should enjoy the best possible health. We are proud to play a role through our community outreach efforts in educating residents of our Commonwealth about how to get and stay healthy. Throughout the year, our teams visit local schools to teach children how to eat right, get regular exercise, and wash their hands. BMC HealthNet Plan also gives out wellness information at health fairs and community events and works with organizations throughout Massachusetts that are committed to supporting good health.

Make Walking a Part of Your Day – Every Day!

This fall, why not add a walk to your daily routine? Walking is good for your mind and body! In addition to helping you stay at a healthy weight, walking can lower your stress level, raise your energy, and boost your spirits. And, walking is low-impact – meaning it isn't hard on your body.

Walking for at least 30 minutes a day – that's about 1.5 to 2 miles, depending on your speed – is great for your waist and weight. Within weeks, you'll notice your clothes fit better, and you may lose weight.

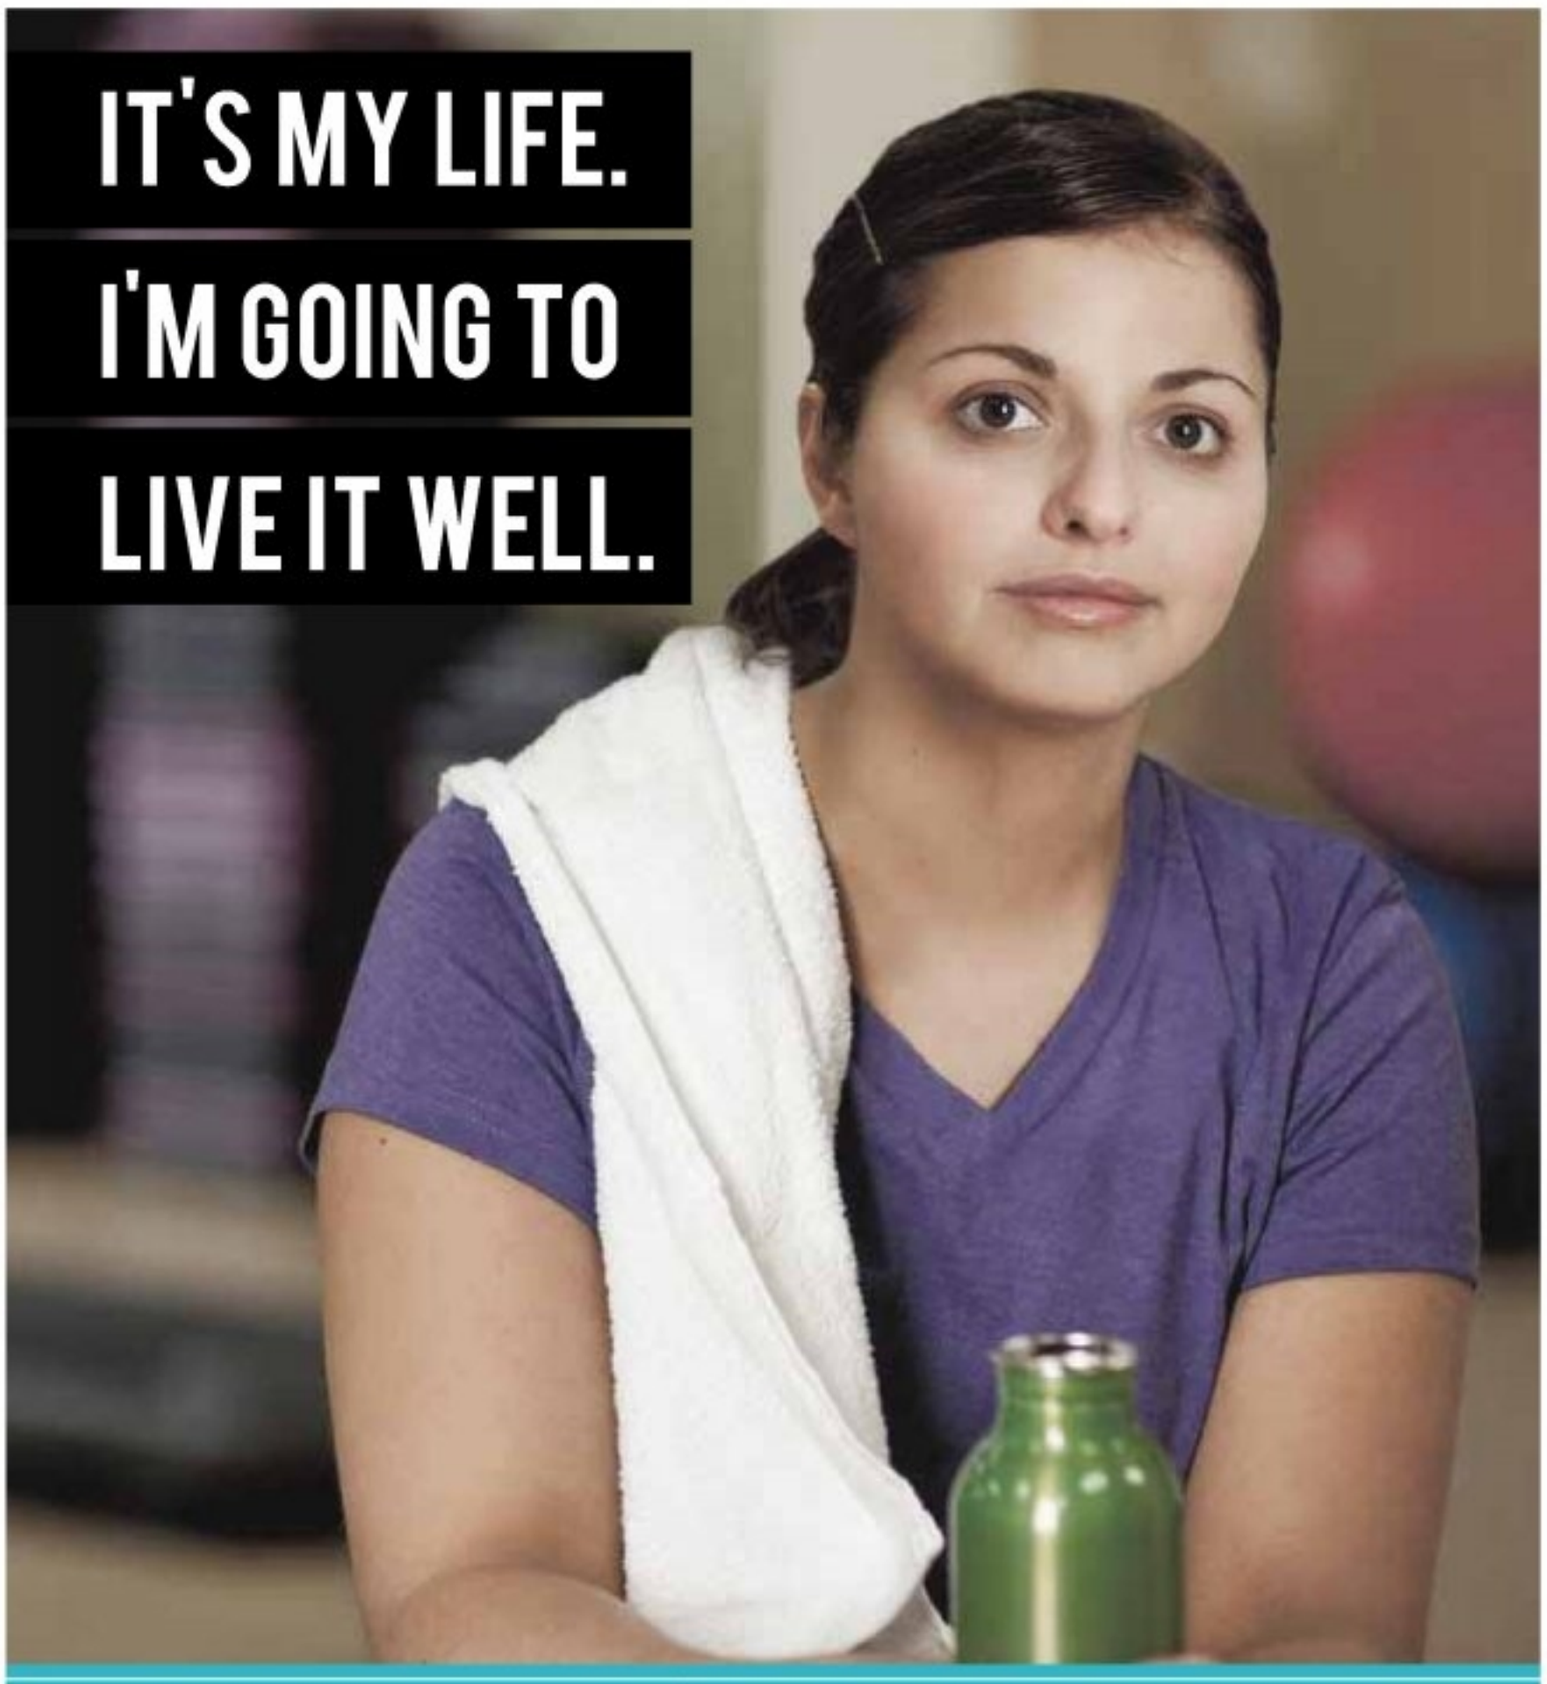
It's easy to get started. Try walking instead of driving, or try parking the car further from the door of your apartment, home or office building. If you take the bus or train, why not get off a stop earlier? How about taking the stairs instead of the elevator, or using the restroom on another floor?

Get started today by inviting friends and family to join you for a walk as a low-cost way to spend time together, or visit walkboston.org for information on lots of great walking tours. It won't be long before you'll be a healthier you.

Step It Up for Your Favorite Cause

At BMC HealthNet Plan, we know how important it is to establish and maintain a healthy lifestyle. We also know how good it feels when you join a friend for a walk, run, or bike ride that supports a local cause. So, to help you get and stay well this fall and generate awareness and funds for your favorite charity, we've created the "Fall Charity Walks, Runs, and Cycling" resource section under "Healthy Resources" within our online Wellness Center at ChooseBMCHP.com to keep you up-to-date on upcoming charity events. You'll also find links to resources that can help you get and stay healthy.

Brought to you by BMC HealthNet Plan, serving nearly 240,000 members throughout the state.



Contact BMC HealthNet Plan at 800-792-4355 or on the Web. For all your MassHealth options, call 800-841-2900, M – F, 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. (TTY: 800-497-4648). For all your Commonwealth Care health plan options, visit mahealthconnector.org or call 877-623-6765 (TTY: 877-623-7773), M – F, 8 a.m. – 5 p.m.

Why Fall is the Ideal Walking Season:

- That crisp, cool fall weather
- Time to enjoy the beautiful fall foliage
- If you've started an exercise program during the summer, it's important to keep it up. Strive to stay healthy all year round – not just when it's warm out!
- Lots of great Boston-area fundraising walks, runs, and rides, like the Boston Walk to Cure Diabetes on Saturday, October 1 and the Boston Making Strides Against Breast Cancer walk on Sunday, October 2.

Dana-Farber encourages you to get the facts about ovarian cancer.

Ovarian Cancer is one of the most deadly of women's cancers. Each year, approximately 21,880 women are diagnosed with the disease. Many women don't seek help until the disease has begun to spread, but if detected at its earliest stage, the five-year survival rate is more than 93%. Recent research suggests that together the four symptoms of bloating, pelvic or abdominal pain, difficulty eating or feeling full quickly and urinary urgency or frequency may be associated with ovarian cancer. There is currently no early detection test for ovarian cancer. Until there is a test, the key to early diagnosis is awareness.

To promote awareness of this disease and its symptoms, a coalition including Dana-Farber/Brigham and Women's Cancer Center, The M. Patricia Cronin Foundation, and the Massachusetts Chapter of the National Ovarian Cancer Coalition are supporting a statewide public education effort to promote ovarian cancer awareness. The campaign includes television public service announcements and the following statewide education initiatives.

ovariancancerawareness.org coalition members at the State House.

"Turn It Teal" A banner at the Massachusetts State house celebrates Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month by calling attention to the 11 venues across the State which are awash in teal this month, the color of ovarian cancer awareness. Landmarks such as the Zakim Bridge in Boston and the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield have turned their lights teal in support of ovarian cancer awareness. Other participating venues and businesses include Adobe Incorporated, Inc.; Bank of America Pavilion; Hyatt Regency Boston; Hyatt Regency Cambridge; Legal Sea Foods Corporate Office; Rose Kennedy Greenway Light Blades - Wharf District; TD Garden; IMAX 3D Theater at Jordan's Furniture; and Westin Boston Waterfront.

"Team Molly" High school athletic teams, both female and male, throughout the state are wearing teal colored athletic gear in support of ovarian cancer awareness. Teams ranging from girls' volleyball to boys' football, are wearing teal sweatbands, shoelaces and even jerseys during the month of September and are becoming advocates for ovarian cancer awareness to their families and providing cancer awareness information to their fans.

FP3's company

New development brings Fort Point further into the city It's official: This is no longer the land of abandoned warehouse buildings

At the beginning of this century, Fort Point Channel was a quiet enclave, noted for its artist residents, the Children's Museum, Lucky's Lounge and very little else, aside from the headquarters of a certain free daily newspaper. Even in 2008, when the area's first swanky loft-style condos, FP3, and its trio of Barbara Lynch-helmed eating and drinking spots opened on Congress Street, it seemed an anomaly. Now, development appears to be speeding along, with new residences at Atlantic Wharf open and restaurants such as Smith & Wollensky, Sorelle Bakery and Cafe, Jody Adams' Trade at Atlantic Wharf and Trillium Brewery all due to open soon.

"I don't know that I've noticed the changes," says Brysson Curtis, who bought a home at FP3 in 2009.

"There's a feeling of space still. The other evening I was on the roof deck grilling and it was very peaceful," says the 37-year-old assistant engineer. "There's definitely more traffic on Congress Street. It's noisy on weekends, but living in a city, you expect it."

▶ Does this look like an old warehouse? Hardly. It's a room in an apartment in the new FP3!

The impending Seaport Square, which will add much more residence and retail space adjacent to Fort Point Channel, will likely destroy that feeling of space. But Curtis feels it will add to Fort Point property values. Still, he doesn't seem too concerned.

"That construction vortex seems like it's far away from here," says Curtis. "I heard vaguely what they're going to do, but haven't seen any details. I think it will be a benefit to our building."

Curtis recalls the first time he came to Fort Point in the early 2000s, to go to Lucky's with friends.

"There was nothing here then. It was cool, all these old warehouse buildings. But it was the kind of place that seemed abandoned."

Not for much longer.

DIY wine crate display case

Grace Bonney's new book 'Design Sponge at Home' is filled with fun and totally doable home projects

From "Design Sponge at Home" by Grace Bonney

No matter what size our home is, most of us are always in need of more storage space. Rather than covering up more precious counterspace, Design Sponge contributors Derek Fagerstrom and Lauren Smith decided to add wall shelves made from recycled wine crates they found at their local wine shop. To add more detail, Lauren and Derek lined the back of the shelves with colorful, inexpensive gift wrap to act as a backdrop for their favorite books and tiny treasures.

REAL ESTATE ON THE GO!

SECURITY DEPOSITS REVISITED

By Attorney George Warshaw

It's that time of the year: new tenants move in and old tenants move out. What are the key security deposit rules?

When the lease or rental is over, the landlord has 30 days to return the tenant's security deposit.

The landlord may deduct any unpaid rent from the security deposit.

If the landlord deducts for damages, the landlord must notify the tenant in writing, signed under the penalties of perjury, itemize and document the damages and cost of repair.

When the tenant moves into an apartment, the landlord must within 10 days give a tenant who pays a security deposit a Statement of the Apartment's Condition.

Within 30 days of taking a security deposit, the landlord must place the deposit in a special "escrow" type of account in a bank in Massachusetts, and notify the tenant of the bank, account number and amount of the deposit, among other requirements.

The security deposit law is very complicated and often misunderstood. The foregoing is general information. Consult an attorney to see how the law may apply to you.

Also, see my security deposit law blog at http://securitydepositlawblog.com or simply Google: warshaw security deposits. © 2011 George Warshaw.

▶ The interior of 25 Hunt Ave. in Braintree looks like the type of place the leader of the free world could grow up.

A good place to raise the next president

Braintree's most famous resident, John Adams, was actually one of the Hub's very first commuters

When recounting the birth of America, Braintree isn't high on the list of hallowed locations. Boston, yes. Philadelphia, yes. Why not Braintree? This was where statesman and second president John Adams built his family's home. It was a bucolic habitat where Adams found peace in a turbulent world.

Though Adams' business and then political activism meant he needed access to Boston (and Philadelphia), he raised a family here. Well, his stoic wife Abigail possibly did more on that front; but along with being a father, Adams also helped raise a nation. Much has changed about Braintree since then, of course. Part of it was lost in creating neighboring Quincy, named for Adams' eldest son and later president, John Quincy.

The three-bedroom, single-family home for sale at 25 Hunt Ave. is no rural retreat, but realtor Nao White says it's perfect for a young family and located in what is reputed to be a fine school district.

Info

25 Hunt Ave. has 960 sq. ft. of living space, plus a finished basement that runs the length of the house. It was built in 1997 and has one full bath, and one half.

For price and more info: Nao White, Keller Williams Realty. 617-372-7221. 25 Hunt Ave., Braintree

"This property is great for somebody who would still like to be in the Red Line T area, but would like to be in a great school district for young children," says White.

South Shore Mall adds local shopping and dining, and, of course, the Adams National Historical Park preserves some of Braintree's history. The commuter-convenient location in close proximity to Braintree station gives access to Boston. Quite a bit different to the dirt road that John Adams rode to work — and to revolution.

How could the year have come to this?

- Tonight should have been a victory lap, tune-up
- Instead, the Sox are playing for their playoff lives
- Blame the starting pitching for the historic collapse

How did it ever come to this?

The Red Sox were supposed to take the field tonight in Baltimore with starters resting and American League Division Series analysis starting.

Instead, after giving away a nine-game wild-card lead in the span of 23 days, the Sox find themselves in a must-win situation in Game 162, with the specter of a Game 163 at Tropicana Field looming.

If Boston does have a one-game playoff against the Rays, it will begin at 4:07 p.m. tomorrow.

So desperate are the Sox to avoid such a scenario, Jed Lowrie batted cleanup last night against the Orioles with the season on the brink.

So desperate are the Sox, they are sending Jon Lester to the mound at Camden Yards on three days' rest, just the second time the left-hander has ever done so. The first time is hardly a confidence-booster: On April 23, 2008, Lester allowed four runs over five innings against the Angels.

Before this season, the Red Sox had gone into September in first place 17 times. They made the playoffs in 15 of those.

7.5

The 1995 Angels are the current holders of the September collapse record. They led the AL West by 7.5 games going into the month, only to miss the postseason entirely.

4:07

A one-game playoff between the Red Sox and Rays would begin at 4:07 p.m. tomorrow at Tropicana Field in Florida.

AMERICAN LEAGUE WILDCARD 2011

And speaking of no confidence: Lester, once considered a Cy Young Award candidate, is 0-3 with a 10.54 ERA in his past three starts.

And that is how it has come to this. The Sox did not enter play last night 5-17 since leading the Rays by nine games on Sept. 3 by accident.

The starting pitching, personified by Lester, has been horrendous, going 3-12 with a 7.26 ERA and a 1.70 WHIP.

In fact, the top-two combo of Lester and Josh Beckett, who again failed to deliver when needed Monday night, is 1-5 with a 6.18 ERA since the beginning of the collapse.

"There's not a whole lot of reason to think it through too much," manager Terry Francona said. "We just need to win."

Tonight everything for Boston, Tampa

- After 161 regular-season games, only today matters
- Red Sox, Rays both win their penultimate contests of 2011
- Boston's season is in Jon Lester's (left) hand

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Jon Lester is scheduled to throw on short rest tonight.

Forget April, May and June.

You can get rid of July and August.

For that matter, most of September no longer matters, either.

After 161 regular-season games, the Red Sox and Rays remain tied. For the two teams hoping to earn the American League's wild-card playoff berth, it is now a one-game season.

Boston finally snapped out of it last night, beating up on the Orioles' pitching staff in a 8-7 win at Camden Yards.

Meanwhile, Tampa Bay came from behind to topple the Yankees, 5-3, at Tropicana Field.

That means the Sox and Rays enter their respective regular-season finales tonight with identical 90-71 records.

There's no math left at the end of a pennant race that's been full of half-games, deficits and magic numbers. For each team, it's a one-game season. If one wins and the other loses tonight, the winning team goes to the playoffs. If both win — or both lose — they're staring down the barrel of a one-game playoff at 4:07 p.m. tomorrow at the Trop.

Jon Lester will be doing his best to make sure the Sox don't end up there. He's scheduled to take the mound on three days' rest tonight, hoping to improve on three starts that have seen him go 0-3 with a 10.54 ERA.

He'll be opposed by big Baltimore right-hander Alfredo Simon, who's 4-9 with a 4.85 ERA on the year.

Tampa Bay will send ace lefty David Price (12-13, 3.35 ERA) against the Yankees. It was still unclear at press time which second-teamer New York would open with.

Ryan Lavarnway was the hero for Boston last night, hitting two home runs the day after stepping in for the injured Jarrod Saltalamacchia. Jacoby Ellsbury and Marco Scutaro also went yard. METRO

McFadden, Raiders will test Pats' rush defense

The good news for the Patriots is that their porous passing defense shouldn't be tested too stiffly Sunday.

The rush defense? That's a different story.

With Darren McFadden leading the way, the Raiders have developed into perhaps the NFL's best running team. So while they shouldn't give the Pats' league-worst (377 ypg) pass 'D' too much trouble, we will find out whether Vince Wilfork and Co., can stop an elite ground attack.

On the air Sunday

Patriots at Oakland
4:15 p.m., CBS, 98.5 FM

"They definitely like to run the ball," coach Bill Belichick said yesterday. "They have good backs [and] a good offensive line. They emphasize it a lot — you can see they're pretty good at it. Those backs are really special. They throw enough deep balls and they do enough in the passing game to make you worry about that too. You can't just stop one thing."

"It's good complementary football. They've done a good job of it."
BILL BELICHICK, ON THE RAIDERS

McFadden, who broke out with an 1,157-yard campaign in 2010, is leading the NFL with 393 rushing yards through three games. He's already scored three rushing touchdowns — nearly half his previous career high.
